

Jerwood Artists Platform forthcoming London solo exhibitions in collaboration with Cell Project Space

Jerwood Artists Platform, a successful initiative of the Jerwood Charity, seeks to identify and promote emerging and talented visual artists, providing them with their first London solo exhibition at a pivotal time in their career.

Selected through UK-wide nomination artists David Blandy, Tod Hanson and Richard Forster will spearhead Jerwood Artists Platform's new collaboration with Cell Project Space which will provide six artists with a one-person showcase over the next two years.

Based in the East End of London, Cell Project Space has developed an international reputation for its programme of innovative group exhibitions. Sharing the joint vision to provide high quality opportunities for emerging talent, Jerwood Artists Platform and Cell Project Space will be working in close collaboration to expand the current programme to integrate a wider range of exhibition formats.
